Consolidation of SMU's Sustainable Development Goals (SDG) Initiatives for A.Y. 2024-2025
Date: October 27, 2025

Abstract
This report presents a comprehensive analysis of Saint Mary's University's (SMU) initiatives aligned with the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) for Academic Year 2024–2025. Data were gathered from 34 Annual Reports sourced from the Institutional Development and Quality Assurance Office (IDQAO) DocuHub. A total of 824 SDG-aligned activities were documented across all 17 goals, reflecting the University's sustained integration of sustainability principles in instruction, research, community engagement, and governance. Results reveal that SDG 4: Quality Education recorded the highest number of initiatives, followed by SDG 17: Partnerships for the Goals and SDG 3: Good Health and Well-being, indicating the University's strong focus on educational advancement, collaboration, and community welfare. Unit-level analysis identified the College of Natural Sciences (CNS), the School of Health and Natural Sciences (SHANS), and the School of Accountancy and Business (SAB) as leading contributors to SDG implementation. Overall, the report underscores SMU's institutional commitment to fostering transformative education and sustainable community development through active engagement in the global SDG agenda.

INTRODUCTION

Higher Education Institutions (HEIs), such as Saint Mary's University (SMU), play a key role in advancing the United Nations' 17 Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) through their commitment to promoting balanced economic growth, social inclusion, and environmental sustainability. Guided by their core mandates of instruction, research, and community engagement, HEIs integrate sustainability across disciplines, produce evidence-based innovations for sustainable transitions, and promote responsible governance and policy advocacy in partnership with their stakeholders.
SMU exemplifies this institutional commitment by embedding the SDGs into its academic and operational frameworks. As a higher education institution in Nueva Vizcaya with both local and international linkages, the University implements initiatives that address critical areas, such as poverty alleviation, quality education, health and well-being, gender equality, environmental protection, and social justice. By aligning its initiatives with the SDGs, SMU reaffirms its solidarity with the global community in addressing urgent developmental and ecological challenges. This commitment resonates with the University's adherence to the principles of integral ecology and environmental stewardship, as articulated in Laudato Si'.

This report consolidates SMU's SDG-aligned initiatives for Academic Year 2024–2025. The data were sourced from 34 Annual Reports published in the SMU Institutional Development and Quality Assurance Office (IDQAO) Docuhub. The report presents the scope and diversity of these initiatives, establishing a benchmark for institutional progress and a framework for continuous enhancement of the University's contribution to sustainable development.

METHODOLOGY

The data were gathered from the Annual Reports available on the SMU IDQAO DocuHub, which contains a total of 37 reports. However, only 34 of these were utilized as data sources, as three reports (PPPDMO, COL, SGS) were inaccessible during the data collection from Sept. 11, 2025 to Oct. 27, 2025.

Furthermore, the consolidation of the SDGs was based on the identified SDG alignments indicated in the Activity Narrative Report Form (EOMS-QAO-FO-008, Rev.00) attached as evidence in the Annual Reports. The following parameters guided the data-gathering process:

1. Source of data. Information was obtained from the accomplished Activity Narrative Report Form (EOMS-QAO-FO-008, Rev.00) attached to the 34 Annual Reports.
2. Multiple alignment. Certain activities were mapped to more than one SDG, as indicated in the submitted Activity Reports.
3. Exclusion criteria. Activities with inaccessible narrative reports or evidence links were excluded from this consolidated report. Activities that did not specify any SDG—either because the SDG item was left blank or a different form without an SDG field was used—were also excluded from the consolidation.

Table 1 presents the list of Annual Reports that served as the primary data sources for consolidating SDG-aligned initiatives across various university units for AY 2024-2025.

Table 5 consolidates the major programs, projects, and activities implemented under the SDG framework, organized by thematic categories and alignment areas. Each SDG entry includes its thematic focus, the number and percentage of activities implemented, and sample programs or initiatives conducted by various university units. The table highlights how SMU integrates sustainability principles into its academic, research, community engagement, and operational activities, contributing to global and local development priorities.

The data indicate that SMU's initiatives are strongly concentrated on SDG 4: Quality Education, which accounts for 42% (346 activities) of all SDG-aligned programs. This reflects the university's core mission of promoting accessible, high-quality, and transformative education. Other highly represented goals include SDG 17: Partnerships for the Goals (13%), underscoring the importance of collaboration and global engagement, and SDG 9: Industry, Innovation, and Infrastructure (7%), demonstrating the institution's commitment to fostering innovation and technological advancement. While SDG 4 dominates, SMU's programs also encompass all 17 goals—ranging from poverty reduction (SDG 1) and good health and well-being (SDG 3) to climate action (SDG 13) and life on land (SDG 15)—indicating a holistic approach to sustainability. Overall, the table shows that SMU strategically aligns its academic and community engagements with the UN 2030 Agenda, positioning education as a catalyst for sustainable development across multiple sectors.

Note: Some activities were repeatedly recorded due to units indicating numerous (more than 3) SDGs for a single activity conducted.

This table presents the distribution of SDG-aligned activities implemented by various units of Saint Mary's University (SMU) for AY 2024–2025. Each unit's percentage contribution to the total number of SDG-related activities is shown, along with the top three SDGs they most frequently supported. The ranking per SDG indicates the areas where each unit demonstrated the highest alignment and engagement.

The data reveal that all SMU units contributed to advancing the 17 Sustainable Development Goals, with varying degrees of engagement. The Center of Natural Sciences (CNS) emerged as the top contributor, accounting for 16% of total SDG activities, followed by SHANS (13%), and SAB (12%).

Across all units, SDG 4: Quality Education consistently ranked first, demonstrating SMU's strong institutional focus on educational advancement and learning initiatives. Other frequently aligned goals include SDG 17: Partnerships for the Goals and SDG 9: Industry, Innovation, and Infrastructure, indicating collaborative and innovation-driven initiatives.

Overall, the distribution underscores SMU's university-wide commitment to sustainable development, with education serving as the central pillar of its contributions.

CONCLUSION

The findings of this report affirm Saint Mary's University's steadfast commitment to advancing the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) through its academic, research, and community engagement initiatives. For A.Y. 2024–2025, the University successfully implemented a diverse range of SDG-aligned activities across all 17 goals, demonstrating a holistic and institution-wide approach to sustainable development.

Among the goals, SDG 4: Quality Education emerged as the most actively pursued, reflecting SMU's enduring mission to promote accessible, inclusive, and transformative education. Other goals, such as SDG 17: Partnerships for the Goals and SDG 3: Good Health and Well-being, also ranked prominently, underscoring the University's emphasis on collaboration, health promotion, and community welfare. The analysis also highlights the significant contributions of both academic and administrative units, with several offices consistently serving as champions of sustainability-driven programs.

Collectively, these efforts underscore SMU's growing role as a catalyst for social transformation, integrating sustainability principles into its institutional culture and operational practices. By aligning its initiatives with the global SDG framework, SMU continues to nurture responsible citizens, empower communities, and strengthen its identity as a Marian institution committed to faith, excellence, and service. Moving forward, the University is poised to build on these accomplishments by deepening inter-unit collaboration, enhancing impact assessment mechanisms, and broadening partnerships that advance the shared pursuit of a sustainable and equitable future for all.

Limitations of the Report

This consolidated report on SMU's SDG initiatives is subject to several methodological and structural limitations that may have affected the accuracy and comprehensiveness of the data. These limitations include:

1. Exclusion of Certain Activities. Some activities were excluded because they lacked identified SDG alignments. Various formats of Activity Narrative Reports were used, and several reports either lacked SDG alignment entries or left them blank.
2. Inaccessible Report Links. Certain narrative report links embedded in the Annual Reports could not be accessed due to technical restrictions or errors, preventing data verification or inclusion.
3. Reliance on Self-Reported SDG Alignment. The SDG alignment of each activity was self-declared by the implementing unit, which introduces the possibility of subjective interpretation or over-alignment. This may have inflated the reported figures for certain goals.
4. Risk of Activity Duplication or Inflation. The methodology permitted multiple SDG alignments per activity, which may have resulted in duplication when activities were recorded under more than three SDGs. Consequently, the total counts for frequently cited goals—such as SDG 4 and SDG 17—may have been inflated, making it difficult to determine the primary focus of some activities.
5. Scope Limited to Activity Count, Not Impact. This report consolidates the number and types of SDG-aligned activities (outputs), as described in the methodology, with a focus on scope and diversity. It does not assess the actual outcomes or long-term impacts of these activities on communities or the environment (e.g., reporting that a feeding program occurred without measuring its sustained effect on student nutrition).

Recommendations

To enhance the accuracy, consistency, and analytical value of future SDG initiative reports, the following measures are recommended:

1. Standardize the Activity Narrative Report Template. Adopt a uniform template—preferably EOMS-QAO-FO-008—and ensure that all fields are completely filled out, especially those related to SDG alignment and identified beneficiaries.
2. Revise the Activity Narrative Report Form. Limit the number of SDG alignments per activity to a maximum of three goals. This revision will help prevent data inflation for commonly aligned goals (e.g., SDG 4 and SDG 17) and promote more accurate identification of each activity's primary alignment.
3. Ensure Proper SDG Alignment. Review SDG indicators regularly to guide proper activity alignment. Artificial Intelligence (AI) tools may be utilized to assist in determining appropriate SDG matches for reported activities.
4. Properly Link Evidence in Annual Reports. Verify that all narrative report links are functional and accessible to facilitate transparent documentation and data validation.
5. Assign an SDG Champion per Unit. Designate unit-level SDG champions responsible for monitoring and coordinating initiatives based on each unit's thrusts and priorities, promoting accountability and focused engagement.
6. Integrate Standardized Impact Metrics. Develop and adopt a standardized matrix for reporting quantifiable outcome indicators (e.g., number of beneficiaries, dissemination plans, or measurable impacts). This will allow the university to move beyond activity counts toward evidence-based impact assessment.
